

AquaX Water On Its Way – to You

All Natural, Great-Tasting, High-Energy Product Simply Amazing

Sedona, Arizona, November 1, 2007 – You've read what we have to say about this product before. We've been regular users now for over a year – and we're passing on this information because we realize its special qualities and urge you to try it too.

The difficulty up to now has been availability. But now AquaX is being delivered. As we speak.

Initially AquaX is becoming available in its own Arizona/New Mexico/Southern California backyard – but within a few weeks it should also be showing up on shelves in Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas and Arkansas.

The AquaX web site is currently undergoing reconstruction; when that work is done the rest of you may order safely online until it becomes available in your area.

When you purchase your first 12-pack of AquaX Water, we want you to remember this: It comes to you direct from a Sedona, Arizona aquifer, and is unique. However, nothing has been added or taken away from this water. The unique quality comes from the water passing through a patented molecular enhancement process – one that affects the body in beneficial ways.

When we tell you that "not all waters are alike" we mean just that. Many products on the market today are just enhanced tap water, have gone through reverse osmosis (which is not only not good, it's wasteful) or includes additives that mask what's missing.

To begin with, the pH level of AquaX Water is about as close as you can get to the level our bodies enjoyed the moment we came into this world.

Since then what we've been drinking has had little impact on nourishing our bodies and hasn't reached our cells, putting our body's pH balance out of whack. This balance is critical to proper hydration.

The applied technology in AquaX Water takes care of this shortfall, by nurturing and hydrating our bodies at the cellular level.

Most importantly, AquaX is an all-natural, great-tasting, high-energy, oxygen-available, micro-structured product. Nothing foreign – no minerals, substances, electromagnetic forces or ionization has been added.

Sold in distinctively labeled 24-ounce bottles, AquaX Water is competitively priced.

There are no bells and no whistles – just great, 100% natural artesian, high-energy water, enhanced by the patented process described, that returns it to its pristine level and pure taste.

Tested and proven in respectable laboratories, AquaX is supported by mainstream scientific principles.

Still need convincing? Purchase one 12-pack, and drink one 24-ounce bottle a day for a week; then let us know how you feel.
